Early Childhood Play Guide

WHEN YOU'RE LITTLE, PLAY IS A BIG DEAL!

Play Milestones

We design play systems and activities to support developmental milestones in a child's life, such as:

6 months

children are ready to explore their surroundings

9 months

a child can distinguish between different textures and tactile experiences

motion activities like swinging with a caregiver improve cognition and emotional health

15 months

children begin to engage in symbolic and imaginative play

18 months

a child is sitting, pulling up, standing, and walking

2 years

children begin to interact socially with peers

ready to climb small ladders and take on more advanced play

Source: Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)

Play is essential to healthy childhood development. It enhances balance and coordination, spatial awareness, cognitive development, and fine and gross motor skills. Play also contributes to creative thinking, decision-making, inclusion, and social equity.

Play is a big deal!
