Our Vision

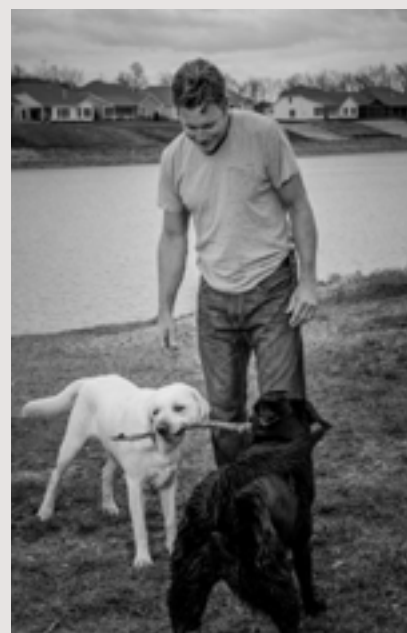

With extensive experience and a proven track record as a long-term quality provider, our team is a world leader in recreational pet wellness products and brands. Founded with the vision to pioneer the design and development of premium pet amenities, innovative pet products, and engaging wellness parks, we have crafted and delivered amenity projects for some of the most reputable market leaders.

The Dog Park Company's founder, John, with his inspiration dog Ellie

At the core of our leadership's vision is a deep passion for enhancing the lives of all pets, helping them live their best lives through fun, socialization, and exercise with their owners, other pets and communities around them.

We are committed to building reliable, long-term relationships with our customers and partners. By offering cutting-edge solutions and support, we are dedicated to helping our customers to grow their businesses.

How It All Started

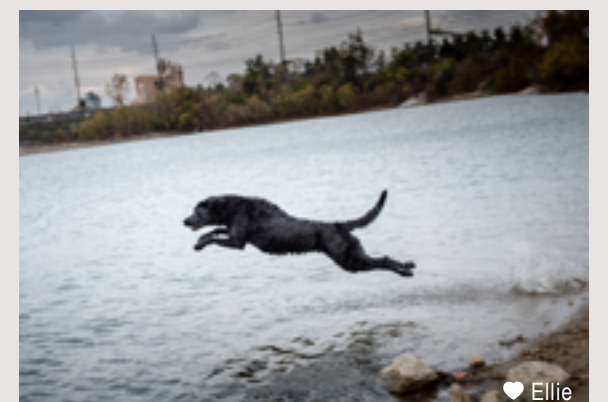

Our story began with a simple yet powerful observation. Our founder, while playing and exercising with his dog Ellie outdoors, noticed her incredible athletic abilities. As they worked together on incline training, jumping, and agility exercises, it became clear that Ellie had a natural drive to conquer physical challenges and obstacles. She was more than just a dog—she was an athlete and the ultimate outdoor companion.

Ellie's boundless energy and passion for overcoming new challenges and constantly pushing the boundaries became the inspiration for the creation of our company. The goal was simple: to design equipment that would allow other dogs to experience a fun level of excitement and athletic challenges. This led to the development of our first products—high-quality equipment designed to challenge dogs both physically and mentally while having fun. Then, Maggie joined the pack and helped us continue to develop athletic products.

Since that moment, we've dedicated ourselves to producing innovative products that tap into a dog's natural athleticism while keeping them engaged socially and having fun with other dogs. Our commitment to quality, creativity, and performance has helped us become trusted partners in outfitting and enhancing thousands of dog parks across North America.

Building Social Bonds through Play and Interaction

At the heart of our products is to provide personal, interactive experiences that strengthen the bond between pets and their owners. Just like humans, dogs thrive when they have social interactions, especially with their furry friends at the park. We believe that being outdoors, exercising together, and enjoying the company of other pets can lead to a great day for both pets and owners alike.

CLIMB & PLAY SERIES

Jumping is an essential form of exercise that promotes a dog's physical and mental well-being.

Courtesy of Lander Co., NV

Jump training exercises help strengthen the muscles in the hind limbs, including the quadriceps, hamstrings, and calf muscles, promoting enhanced agility and coordination. When a dog jumps, it uses these muscle groups in a coordinated manner to generate the necessary force for each leap. Keep in mind that the specific muscles involved may vary depending on the type of jump (vertical, horizontal, etc).

Benefits

- Contributes to improved cardiovascular fitness, as it increases heart rate and promotes better circulation.
- Assists in maintaining a healthy weight for dogs, preventing obesity-related issues.
- Provides mental stimulation, helping to reduce boredom and behavioral problems.

Incorporating agility equipment into shelters provides mental and physical stimulation for dogs, allowing them to display their personalities and abilities, increasing their chances of finding a forever home.

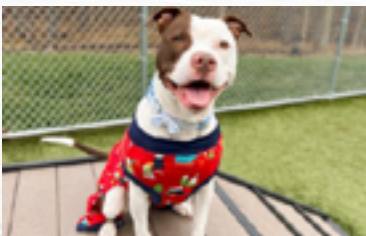

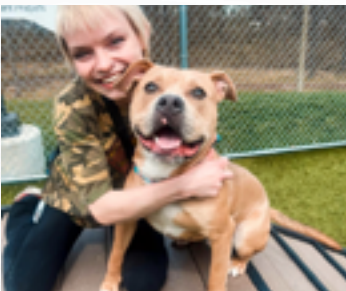

The more dogs are engaged in activities and diverse experiences, the less fearful they become in new situation and environments.

By providing them with physical exercise on play equipment has been shown to have a positive effect on the dog's mood.¹

Social interaction results in an almost 70% higher adoption rate than agencies without toys and play equipment.

Courtesy of Kentucky Humane Society

The two major signs of compatibility are if the dog lays down near you and the dog doesn't reject play. Dogs lying close to the person were about 14 times more likely to be adopted, and a dog who ignored a person's play initiation was unlikely to be adopted.²

Courtesy of Beagle Freedom Project

Play equipment reduces pet stress and improves behavior - making them more likely to get adopted.

Playing with dogs and interacting with them on play equipment such as a Bridge Climb or Training Platform brings the dog up to the potential adopter's level encouraging one-on-one more intimate bonding.

Agility Mat – Great for Garages

The Jump Dog - Agility Mat is a specialized mat designed to enhance the safety and performance of dogs during everyday activities such as jumping from cars. The mat is engineered with the ideal amount of cushioning to minimize the impact on a dog's forelegs, shoulders, and back. This is crucial for preventing potential injuries during agility exercises, where dogs may be required to jump and land repeatedly. The surface of the mat is textured with a pebble grain finish. This not only adds a tactile element but also provides excellent traction for dogs. The enhanced grip helps prevent slipping, ensuring a secure footing for the dogs during their jumps and movements.

FOUNDER'S NOTES

ADVENTURE TIME

Dogs need 'unleashed' activity where they can run and get wild and free off their leash. This should be a daily requirement that all dogs are able to spend some free unleashed time outside playing and running. A dog is a species that requires this unleashed behavior time to be independent and free. Dog parks allow a great venue for dogs to interact with other dogs and other people in an adventurous 'unleashed' environment. The more play and activity elements in the park, the more opportunity for the dogs to exercise, play and just have fun.

DOGS WITH DOGS

It is important for your dog to be able to spend time with other dogs and be able to interact and socialize with other dogs. This will help them feel good and part of their four-legged pact which helps them improve their overall health. Run, Wrestle, Climb, Jump, Sniff, Chase, Hide, Lay Down, these are all some of the fun activities that dog parks provide.

HUMAN INTERACTION

In addition to spending time with other dogs, it is critical that dogs get human interaction and can feel the love and care of a human. Dogs want to feel secure and know that their caretaker is watching over them completely so they can feel comfortable and safe. Teaching dogs' commands and words is important and gives dogs a sense of companionship by communicating. Dogs build vocabulary's by hearing words and making consistent correlations with the spoken word and the action, such as sit, shake, speak, let's go to the dog park, let's go for a ride and of course one of their favorite words; treat! Take the time to teach dogs words and actions to help them live their best life, they enjoy learning and feel proud when they learn a new task or behavior, especially working out on the play & agility items at the park.

TO LOVE AND BE LOVED

Dogs are the ultimate companions that show us love even when they may not be completely loved back. They thrive when they feel safety, security and trusted companionship. They are loyal and dependable partners and can provide comfort in times of stress. They are special creatures that have unique sensory features that are simply unexplainable. Dogs have emotions and even just a dog owners voice inflection can have a big impact on a dog. When dogs see their owners and owners see their dogs, both dogs and owners experience a joy and comfort. Take the time out of each day to spend quality time with your dog(s) and let them have fun and play and do dog things, explore and go on adventures where they experience new things. Dogs depend completely on humans to love and care for them.

PLAY & EXERCISE

It is important & essential that dogs get regular exercise and socialization with other dogs and humans. Put together a daily program so dogs get regular exercise and play opportunities.
