

The next generation sports field.

University of Maryland / Byrd Stadium

Firmer. Faster. Safer.

After more than two decades of protecting athletes, our clients have made Brock the benchmark for safety.

In 1998, we set out on a mission to make sports safer. In 2004, when we installed our first field in Boulder, we made a promise – to make synthetic turf fields safer, perform better, last longer, and be more environmentally friendly to build. The Brock name set a new standard for artificial turf and today that name has grown to represent the highest levels engineering, valued partnerships with leading research universities and sports labs, innovative solutions, and an unwavering dedication to quality that allow our clients to rest easy that they've made the smartest decision for their field and the people who play on it every day.

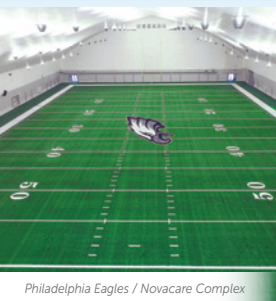

"The year we built the field the football team was not supposed to do that well. Now, whether it was the synthetic field or whether it was fate, they happened to win the championship that year. It's been a great asset, not only to football, soccer, P.E., but the entire community."

– Ed Watkins - Cabrillo Unified School District

Our clients range from the NFL and US Soccer, to high schools and local parks. You'll find a few of our projects listed on the next few pages, but we have an interactive map online where you can see every project we've installed. From Oregon to Florida and 20+ countries around the world, our clients were concerned with safety and the environment. They want their athletes to play hard and play safe. They understand that investing in the right sports field today will pay dividends for decades to come.

Add your project to the 90,000,000+ square feet already protecting athletes today.
